James Mursell is a full-time Windsor chair maker and teacher. He set up The Windsor Workshop five years ago to offer chair making courses. He also makes and sells specialist chairmaking tools, writes for a number of woodworking magazines, and has just written a book about Windsor chairmaking. He teaches at West Dean College three times each year. His workshop is based on a farm with views across the fields to the South Downs, just four miles away.

Absolutely no previous experience is necessary to successfully complete an introductory chair making course. Individual guidance and assistance will be provided as appropriate, and every effort will be made to ensure a rewarding and enjoyable course.
